Precise, long, fine and savory; Chablis offers a wide variety of expression and is a fantastic beginning to any meal. Look to Servin for precision and minerality and Raveneau for broad fruit and rich texture.

Condrieu is a tiny appellation in the Northern Rhône Valley producing unctuous & exotic creamy whites from Viognier. In 2010 where there was great ripeness, very dense phenolic material and a small harvest, the intensity of expression in these wines can be jubilant. Cuilleron offers detailed orange marmalade & white flowers. It is spectacular with white fish like turbot or rockfish and also with calamari and cuttlefish dishes and can be used as a decadent finish with goat's milk cheeses.

Grüner Veltliner is an ancient indigenous Austrian grape that is very green tea, jasmine, citrus peel, white pepper and light to medium-bodied in almost all its variations. It serves ideally in the part of the menu with raw seafood and with delicious little fried things like oysters & soft crabs.

Jean-Nicolas Méo has to be one of the five most brilliant winemakers in Burgundy for Méo-Camuzet. His wines display more power & precision than I've tasted before.

Aromas are at once floral and have a certain truffley minerality. The texture is delicate yet has abundant fine tannins.

André Brunel "Les Cailloux - Cuvée Centenaire" 2003 (Bin 2012x) This is Brunel's top bottling of 100% one-hundred year-old Grenache fruit raised up in new oak barrels. It is a wine of very forceful personality.

I drink (note: drink, not taste, think about, ponder over, etc) more Châteauneuf du Pape's than anything else. Why? For satisfaction, complexity, interest, flexibility with food and a large window of drinkability, a good Châteauneuf-du-Pape is hard to beat. Currently I love the freshness and body of 2006.

The "El Nido" bottlings are super interesting buys for consumers of California Cabernet. While they have mammoth size & fruit, the wines deliver a darker fruit accent & mellower tannins.

~

All the Cune wines are bottled and then stored, unlabelled, in the historic cellars. They are stored unlabelled because the labels would quickly deteriorate in the humidity of these cellars. Plus, the bottles might stay there for decades, undisturbed. Before release, the bottles are hand cleaned and labelled. Cune never recorks its library wines. Recorking exposes the wine to the atmosphere and changes it. The wines do not see the light of day from the day they are bottled until they are released.

Winderlea "Winderlea Vineyard" (Willamette Valley) 2011 (Bin 2545) is a wine that, when tasted from barrel, made me think of top notch Volnay Premier Cru – black raspberry fruit, flowers, minerals and white pepper.

Tom Dehlinger has, over the years, been my favorite producer of California Pinot Noir. His wines always have excellent intensity and expression. They show charming fruit but are not alcoholic fruit bombs.

2007 was a great year in a generous vintage for Williams Selyem – the Bucher Vineyard (Bin 141) is giant, showy & drinking in its prime.

We've chosen a few particularly ageworthy wines to offer in large formats in part because the larger format allows the wines to age more successfully and because of course, it is always more festive to have a big bottle at the table. It is best to allow us some decanting time, or order a bottle a day or two in advance, so we can properly care for it and it can be served as intended, the show-stopping centerpiece of your dinner party.

Moscato d'Asti, Lodali (Piedmont) 2015 (Bin 669) sweet & lightly sparkling; the perfect way to toast your occasion with dessert.

Quarts de Chaume, Domaine des Baumard (Loire Valley) 2005 (Bin 2122) One of the world's great sweet wines, this botrytised Chenin Blanc has both sweetness & excellent acidity. Ripe apricots, lychee nuts & candied ginger overlay talc-scented minerals.

One of the treasures of our cellar is the collection of vintage dated ports. These are marvelous to play with the cheese cart and carry you through dessert. They are the perfect way to take advantage of our cellar and complete your dinner party in the most entertaining way.
